Four Disciplines Building Civility in Relationships

Be WUCA!-ized! Four Disciplines Building Civility in Relationships!

Every day, as we deal with people, all of us want to feel Welcome, Understood, Comfortable, and Appreciated.

Learn to deal with people positively, so they will respond positively!

WUCA! is

- an attitude we emphasize in all of our workshops and coaching.
- a choice of how you think about, talk about, talk to, and treat people.

Using our proven process called Be WUCA!® we teach people to create an environment to have others feel

Welcome

Understood

Comfortable

Appreciated

We describe how a person's belief system is formed and the role our habits play in how we treat others. This session is great to understand each other and to think about how we treat people on a daily basis.

This workshop will:

- Examine how positive and negative habits and beliefs are formed through all five senses.
- Define and understand paradigms/perceptions and how that affects a person's well-being.
- Demonstrate and understand how thinking affects physical attributes of the body using applied kinesiology.
- Discover and understand differences in personalities and how to interact with them. This is a fun and visual way to deal with employees and customers!
- Create a purpose statement and define what exactly you want in all areas of your life.
- Define SMART goals. Write out specific goals in personal, business, financial, health, and recreation areas. Discover how positive affirmations affect successfully achieving goals.
- Develop the customer service approach to Be WUCA!®

Present the Be WUCA!® process. It is a great way to increase your:

- your bottom line
- customer satisfaction
- employee morale
- visitor return rate
- tourism dollars
- retail sales
- graduation rates
- teamwork
- cooperation
- volunteer participation
- youth retention

and many more positive outcomes!

If you would like to improve your personal and professional relationships, learn to welcome, understand, comfort, and appreciate.
