Syria: Our Family of Believers

From the General Secretary, Synod of Syria and Lebanon:

Friends, Beyond the tragic situation from a human and economic point of view...[we] are also deeply concerned for our very presence... Indeed, while all of us request reform, freedom of speech, equal opportunities and social justice, we also cry for peace, peace, peace... and a normal future for our children so that they will stay in Syria. And so we appeal to you to continue to pray for us and with us that God's peace and God's righteousness will prevail in Syria... Pray for us to have hope and to be able to give our people hope.

The Presbyterian Church in Homs, Syria was bombed in the fall, leaving the congregation unable to worship together.

The news brings daily reports of increased violence and death in Syria. Our fellow Presbyterians there are literally caught in the cross-fire of the conflict. Churches are being severely damaged like the one above. Families are fleeing, leaving behind their homes and livelihoods. Winter is setting in, adding yet another layer of misery to their plight.

Of the twenty Presbyterian congregations in Syria, many are enduring the hardship of war. The Synod of Syria and Lebanon, through its Refugee Assistance Program, is overwhelmed locating and providing support for the displaced congregants, both families and pastors.

The Outreach Foundation invites you to join in efforts to come alongside our Syrian brothers and sisters to help them in this time of need. Please read the other side to see how you can help.

A Syrian Presbyterian congregation worships together to proclaim Jesus' name despite the ravages of war.

Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up. Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers. (Gal. 6:9-10)
