Q.57 Let me read you some more information about the House Republicans' budget plan.

This plan cuts taxes for corporations and those making over one million dollars a year by 10 percent. It eliminates tax deductions and replaces the current six brackets with two. It repeals the health care reform law and the Wall Street reform law. The budget will cut more than 1.7 trillion dollars to Medicaid over the next decade and phase out traditional Medicare over the next decade, replacing it with a voucher system in which retirees will receive money to purchase either traditional Medicare or private health insurance.

Now that you've heard more information, do you favor or oppose this plan?

Q.80 (SPLIT A) (MIDDLE CLASS PRIORITIES) Now I'm going to read you a pair of statements from Democrats and Republicans on the economy.

Democrats say: The middle class has been smashed. Regular Americans are working harder for less, while special interests and those at the top get all the breaks. That has to change. We need to put middle class priorities, like education and Medicare, first - not tax breaks for millionaires and big oil. But the Republicans voted to end Medicare as we know it and raise taxes on middle class families while giving even more tax breaks to big corporations and the wealthiest Americans.

OR

Republicans say: Excessive government spending like the failed stimulus bill and Obamacare has made it harder for American businesses to grow while saddling our children with debt. That has to change. We need to make it easier for businesses to create jobs by ending unnecessary regulations, cutting spending and lowering taxes. But the Democrats' solution is more government and more spending, all financed by higher taxes on families and job-creating businesses.

After hearing both statements, who do you think would do a better job when it comes to the economy, Democrats or Republicans?
