

Intersectionality: Innovations in Research, Policy and Teaching

Stimulating important conversations about the implications of the intersection of race, class, gender and other identities for research, policy, and teaching.

Keynote by Professor Kimberlé Crenshaw
Professor of Law, UCLA and Columbia Law School

November 8, 2012

6:30pm Reception

7:00-8:30 pm Keynote

November 9, 2012

8:30am-12:00:

Discussions on Policy, Teaching,
and Moving the Agenda Forward

12:00-2:30pm: Post Event

Dialogues and Resources

Location: Rapaport Treasure Hall,
Goldfarb Library, Brandeis University.
Refreshments will be served.

Registration is now open: <http://intersectionalitybrandeis.eventbrite.com>.
Contact Laurie Nsiah-Jefferson with questions: ljeffers@brandeis.edu.

Generous support for this program comes from:

Association of American Colleges and Universities; Office of the Provost; Dean's Office of Arts and Sciences; Graduate School Council; Mandel Center for the Humanities; International Center for Ethics, Justice and Public Life; Women's and Gender Studies Department; African and Afro-American Studies Department; Politics Department; Sociology Department; Social Justice and Social Policy Program; Health: Science, Society, and Policy Program; Schuster Institute for Investigative Journalism; Schusterman Center for Israeli Studies; Women's Studies Research Center; Heller School Dean's Office; Sillerman Center for the Advancement of Philanthropy; Institute on Assets and Social Policy; Institute for Child, Youth and Family Policy; Schneider Institutes for Health Policy; Masters in Public Policy Program; Master's Program in Coexistence and Conflict Program; Lurie Institute for Disability Policy; Feminist Sexual Ethics Project; Women of Color Alliance.