Passover in the Desert

In the first month of the second year of the Exodus from Egypt, HaShem spoke to Moses in the Sinai Desert, saying:

The Israelites shall prepare a Passover offering on the 14th of this month in the afternoon. They must prepare it in accordance with all its decrees and laws.

Moses spoke to the Israelites and they did as HaShem had told them.

There were some people who had had contact with the dead and were therefore ritually unclean, so they could not prepare the Passover offering that day. They asked Moses and Aaron, "Why should we lose out and not be able to present HaShem's offering at the proper time like the other Israelites?"

"Wait here," Moses replied, and he went to ask HaShem.
