The National Coalition of Girls' Schools
invites you to ask these questions about your daughter's current classroom
experience:

- Are girls actively involved, called on, and encouraged to participate equally?
- Do teachers understand and respond to the way girls learn?
- Are girls on the front lines of leadership?
- Are there women role models?
Women in leadership positions on the faculty?
In the administration?
- Does her school value and support girls' sports equally with boys'?
- Do girls persist and excel in higher level math and science classes?
- How well does the school listen to parents and encourage meaningful partnerships?
- What do other parents of girls say about the school?
